Excerpt: . . . 11 the trend in fuel efficiency improvements that were seen in this country from 1978 to 1988 had continued instead of actually re-versing, then the average small business owner would today be ex-periencing a greater than 50 percent savings on his or her gasoline bill. Improving vehicle efficiency by 3 miles per gallon would reduce oil imports and provide the same addition to U. S. aggregate de-mand as development of Arctic Refuge oil with the same small positive impact on jobs. It would also provide valuable insurance against sudden oil price increases. Finally, the National Academy of Sciences has recently concluded that much larger improvements in fuel efficiency than 3 miles per gallon can be achieved with no net cost to consumers since increased up-front vehicle costs would be offset by fuel savings. Bottom line, over the next 45 years, the...
