Not illustrated. 1898 Excerpt: .old one, thus allowing comparative tests of the two forms to be made without changing the clips. There should be a strengthening rib upon the outside of the clips to prevent them from bending or breaking when the specimens are very strong. The clips should be hung on pivots so as to avoid as much as possible cross strain upon the briquettes. MACHINES. No special machine has been recommended, as those in common use are of good form for accurate work, if properly used, though in some cases they are needlessly strong and expensive. Machines with spring balances are to be avoided as more liable to error than others. It is by no means certain that there exists any great difference in well made machines of the standard forms given. AMOUNT OF MATERIAL. The amount of material needed for making five briquettes of the standard size recommended is: for the neat cements, about one and two-thirds pounds; and for those with sand, in the proportion of three parts of sand to one of cement, about one and one-quarter pounds of sand and six and two-thirds ounces of cement. German Specifications For Standard Portland Cement Tests. Definition. Portland cement is a product resulting from the vitrification of a thorough mixture of material, whose principal component parts are lime and alumina, and the grinding of the vitrified material to a fine powder. 1. Packing and Weight: As a rule Portland cement is to be packed in standard barrels...
